International Advocacy Program

Capacity-building program designed to promote and support the role libraries can play in the implementation of the United Nations 2030 Agenda and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)

IFLA and the United Nations

- Participation in developing the UN 2030 Agenda
- Since 2012, advocating for the following to be included in the Agenda:
 - Ensuring access to information
 - Safeguarding of cultural heritage
 - Universal literacy
 - Access to information and communication technologies (ICT)
- Lyon Declaration 2014
 - called upon United Nations Member States to incorporate access to information in the new post-2015 development framework

UNITED NATIONS 2030 AGENDA

In September 2015 the 193 Member States of the United Nations adopted Transforming our world: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development

17 Sustainable Development Goals

The Global Goals represent a "universal, transformative and integrated agenda that heralds a historic turning point for our world."

United Nations Secretary General, Ban Ki-moon

LIBRARIES, DEVELOPMENT AND THE UN2030 AGENDA

Vision of the UN 2030 Agenda

In these Goals and targets, we are setting out a supremely ambitious and transformational vision. We envisage a world free of poverty, hunger, disease and want, where all life can thrive. We envisage a world free of fear and violence. A world with universal literacy. A world with equitable and universal access to quality education at all levels, to health care and social protection, where physical, mental and social well-being are assured...

UNIVERSAL LITERACY

• Universal literacy is recognised in the vision for the UN 2030 Agenda "We envision...a world with universal literacy."

The literacy rate varies throughout the world with developed nations having a rate of 99.2% (2013)

- Oceania 71.3%
- women represent almost two-thirds of all illiterate adults globally

Access to information

Target 16.10: Ensure public access to information and protect fundamental freedoms, in accordance with national legislation and international agreements.

"...in sustainable development, everyone is a user and provider of information considered in the broad sense.

That includes data, information, experience and knowledge.

The need for information arises at all levels, from that of senior decision-maker at the national and international levels to the grass-roots and individual levels."

Digital divide

- Goal 9, Target C: Significantly increase access to information and communications technology and strive to provide universal and affordable access to the Internet in least developed countries by 2020.
- Quality infrastructure is positively related to the achievement of social, economic and political goals
- Inadequate infrastructure leads to a lack of access to markets, jobs, information and training, creating a major barrier to doing business
- Undeveloped infrastructures limits access to health care and education

Cultural heritage

• Goal 11, Target 4: Strengthen efforts to protect and safeguard the world's cultural and natural heritage.

Role of Libraries in the UN 2030 Agenda

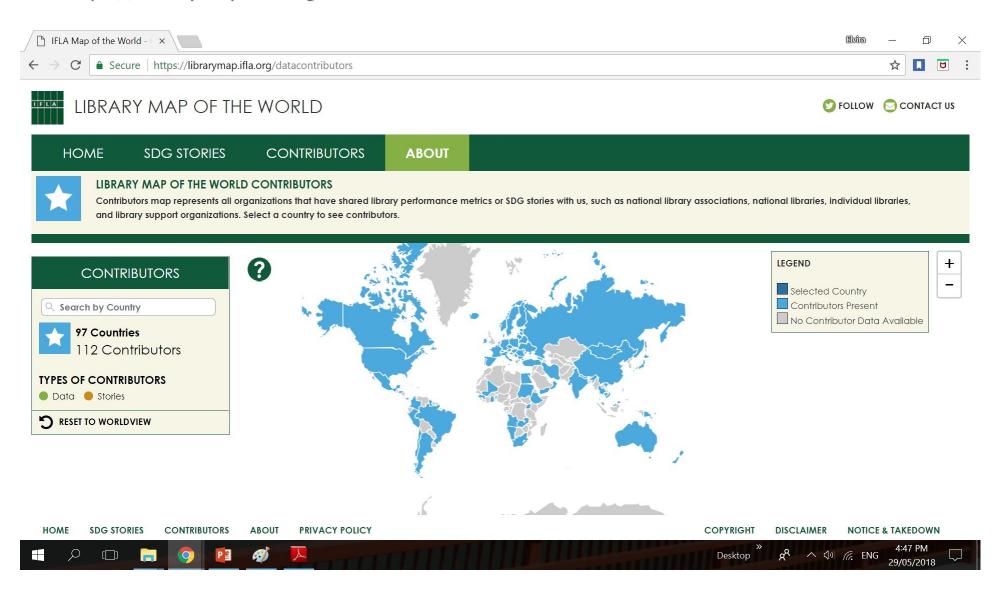

- Libraries make an important contribution to development
- Library staff advocate to ensure that national and regional policy makers understand that libraries and access to information must be included as part of national and regional development plans
- Libraries must now show that they can drive progress across the entire 2030 Agenda
- While the SDGs are universal goals, each country will be responsible for developing and implementing national strategies to achieve them, and will be expected to track and report its own progress toward each target

(IFLA Toolkit, p. 11)

How we, librarians can contribute

- Make the Goals known, make them famous Share!
- Share information about the SDGs in our libraries
- Learn about what the people want from the Goals
- 65% of targets need to be achieved locally

AUSTRALIAN LIBRARIES SUPPORT THE SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

Our Global Future summit report

Sunday 29 July, 2018: More than 50 library leaders from Australia and the Asia-Pacific gathered at the Gold Coast Convention and Exhibition Centre today for the ALIA Asia-Pacific Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Summit. Nearly a third of the audience came from overseas, from as far away as Fiji, India, Indonesia, NZ, PNG, Samoa, Sri Lanka and Timor-Leste. For many, their attendance was made possible by grants from the International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA).

The full day meeting involved eight presentations and two workshops. It resulted in the development of a shared understanding of what lies ahead for libraries, and a list of 34 actions ranging from including a Sustainable Development Goal in one's email signature block through to signage for university buildings referencing the SDGs most relevant to the faculty.

Keynote speaker Christopher Woodthorpe, Director of the United Nations Information Centre for the region, inspired delegates with his sweeping overview of the SDGs, while making the point that 65% of SDG delivery relies on local initiatives. Pamela McGowan, Team Leader, Townsville Libraries, and Nina Nakaora, Library Assistant, Suva City Carnegie Library, shared the outcomes of the INELi Oceania Pacific Library Summit, held in Fiji in May 2018, while Opeta Alefaio, Director of the National Archives of Fiji, and Paula Eskett, President of LIANZA, outlined the challenges and opportunities of the SDGs for libraries in their jurisdictions. ALIA CEO Sue McKerracher talked about the Association's report Australian libraries support the Sustainable Development Goals and libraries' inclusion in the Australian Government's Voluntary National Review.
